Let's Escape

Letter from our founders

Dear Friends,

Since 1992, our family has shaped and led adventure travel vacations throughout the Americas and across the seas. Every year, each successive season, our shared passion has engendered growth: nurtured by faith, wilderness experiences, and amazing sunsets we've reveled in with our guests. Escape Adventures represents not just a leader in adventure touring, but environmentally conscious cycling and custom multi-sport vacations. That core ethic carries over into the maintenance of the highest industry standard. Building on 100-plus departures and destinations, we cater to the full spectrum of active traveler/respective fitness level. From road cyclist to multi-sport enthusiast, from firsttimer to friends and family groups, we will take care of every detail.

Our hope is you'll lose yourself in our catalog, that the decision to tour with us will be easy, even if you can't decide on just one.

Big thanks, gratitude, and happy trails.

Often Imitated, Never Duplicated, Escape Adventures

Photography: Brandi Sims

Since 1992, we have been a consistently out front innovator in adventure travel. We were the first to bring multi-day off road touring to Taos, New Mexico, Escalante and Brian Head, Utah as well in Arkansas and Nevada, more broadly. We built the only support vehicle that could shuttle guests all the way into the ultra-challenging Maze District of Canyonlands National Park. We brought signature food recipes to backcountry camping. Quite a few of those dishes are now staples in many of our clients' dining rooms. Among bike touring outfitters, we were the very first to offer full suspension. The first and only company to build environmentally friendly, LEED Platinum-Net Zero Energy facilities, from which we base both operational and retail business. Our design, of a now standardized rack system, ensured the safe haulage or transit of bicycles across the often-punishing desert terrain of Moab, Utah. Lastly, each year we're among the very few companies that clear downfall on those trails we use. We innovate; we lead, exhibit stewardship, and deliver the ultimate outdoor experience.

Our Commitment to You

We lead with honesty, integrity; moreover we stand 100% behind our product.

From the moment you pick up this catalog, to the time you return home and begin to plan your next trip, we're here to bring you the best possible experience.

From our Guaranteed Trip Departure Confirmation Policy, making sure your trip is never cancelled, to our 100% Satisfaction Guarantee Policy, backing the unrivaled, consistent quality experienced on all our tours; our commitment to you is never compromised.

“I can't say enough about Escape Adventures and their wonderful staff on my recent e-biking tour in Utah. I went on a 3-day mini-tour with Bryce Canyon and Zion National Park as the highlights and they were breathtaking. The staff was courteous and super helpful, as well as there to serve and help each participant along the way. The crew handled every aspect of the e-bike with regards to maintenance, loading, and unloading, so for that, I am grateful! Thank you Escape Adventures.”

Kind Regards,
Dr. Cacinda Maloney

Our Commitment to the Environment

Our environmental commitment is second to none. It's simply how we self define: not only in how we do business, but our very way of being.

At Escape Adventures, our vision has always been to make the world a better place. Leading by example, we run our tours the same way we run our company, with an eye on the triple bottom line: People, Profit and Planet. This means we treat our customers, our community, and our planet with respect. Values-based and mission-driven, our family-owned business continues to grow organically. We're proud of that. At Escape Adventures, we elected to pursue a thorough, top-down approach to actually reduce our carbon footprint, rather than just offset it. By overhauling and retrofitting our entire operation—from vehicles, to buildings, to our business practices—we've become an outdoor industry leader, caring for our people as well as our planet.

You Might Find It Interesting...

Escape Adventures has built 82KW of renewable energy projects producing enough energy (150,000kwh per year) to power both of our retail stores, on-site tour operations, and offices. We are the only NET-ZERO bike tour company in the world.

Utilizing Alternative Energy Sources

Both our Moab, Utah and Las Vegas, Nevada Tour Centers generate 100% of needed energy from hundreds of roof-mounted solar panels, plus two attention getting, if not state-of-the-art wind turbines. This means that our energy portfolio is entirely zero carbon and renewable sourced. Additionally, our Las Vegas Tour Center has been awarded LEED Platinum status by the U.S. Green Building Council.

Our investment in high output, cutting-edge solar technologies has consistently drawn interest from visitors and locals alike. Oftentimes solar power producers, be they home or business, eventually realize a need to adjust as to when and how they use electricity; thus living or working within the limitations of the system's design. However, we researched and perfected a system that completely matched our operations' various needs. Ultimately we learned that solar doesn't need to mean going without. From retail space to support vehicle, powering up with direct energy has helped engender a greater self-awareness of our company's energy usage. That acquired wisdom has produced a cleaner, far more efficient operation.

Solar electricity... deconstructed
Solar electricity works through a photovoltaic process. As sunlight impacts the solar panel (PV panel), a portion of the light's energy is absorbed into a semiconductor, such as silicon. Panels also contain one or more electric fields: they force the energy to flow in a particular direction. This flow directs the energy captured in the silicon, creating an electric current. Metal contacts on the panel's top and bottom then pull the current outward, allowing it to be directed to external uses.

In order to capture the most sunlight, you have to alter the panels' orientation, literally their POV. Thus, in the Northern Hemisphere solar panels are directed at solar south. Conversely, in the Southern Hemisphere they face solar north. More specific angles are dictated by the geographic location and latitude of the array.

The amount of energy produced by the panels depends on the amount of light energy they capture. So if our Moab, UT shop receives four to six peak sun hours per day, then the solar panel can produce an average 350-watt hours of power per day (60w times five hours equals 350 watt-hours).

Support Vehicles

For more than two decades, we have been the industry standard bearer in the design of custom 4x4 trucks, vans, and trailers. Our rack systems, for instance, were fabricated for very specific backcountry bicycle touring. Additionally, in 2007 we were the first and only tour outfitter in the world to use support vehicles powered by vegetable oil.

Reducing our Footprint

The fastest, most practical way we found to minimize our environmental impact was via waste reduction and near total recycling. Taking steps to ensure that the majority of the waste produced in our shops, warehouses, and while touring is recycled has been nothing but a rewarding experience:

- We have developed specific recycling and compost containers for use on our multi-day tours. To that end, we researched recycling programs in each of our tour locations. We now recycle more than 90% of the waste generated on each tour.
- In addition to recycling on tours, we have installed recycling bins for paper, aluminum, plastic, glass, cardboard and rubber at each of our tour centers. Given the rather limited recycling opportunities in Moab and Las Vegas, our bins are viewed as a valued community resource.
- Besides purchasing as much recycled product as possible, for our office and tours, we ask our suppliers to use recyclable products whenever possible.
- We encourage our employees to bike commute, incentivized by a $5 per day ride-to-work bonus.
- Rather than disposable bags to transport food or drinks during your tour, all foodstuffs go directly into reusable coolers and crates.
- Giving strong preference to minimally packaged goods and groceries, we further encourage our employees to do likewise in their personal practices, as well.

Supporting Value-Based Businesses

When shopping for the raw ingredients that comprise many of your tour meals, we instinctively turn to local farmers and slow food growers. We realize that Escape Adventures' cuisine is a big reason why we see so many repeat guests. We're also keenly aware of the importance of looking beyond cost to continually secure best value. Sure, we pay more to buy from organic farms, and in supporting local small businesses. But the ROI is quality products, plus the satisfaction that comes with supporting sustainable growers.

Escape Adventures prepares the healthiest, most satisfying meals in the industry by virtue of our commitment to healthy and environmentally sustainable meals. This includes purchasing wild or free-range meat and fish, buying certified organic produce, grains and dairy, and scanning product labels for snacks and sundries that are free of partially hydrogenated oils, or other unnecessary ingredients.

Each tour season, we receive tour evaluations praising our menu and food preparation. For this we give big thanks to our roster of talented trip leader-chefs, each uniquely skilled to absorb our commitment to the natural foods. They intuitively translate it into superb, spiritually rewarding outdoor-prepared meals.

Increasing Awareness

We are business leaders. Enlightened business leaders. We support likeminded businesses and good-actor types in the many communities where we tour. At the same time we're active in the sustainable community, on both a national and international level. Escape Adventures is involved, and partners with, non-profits and government as much to minimize negative environmental impacts as to maximize awareness. That principle extends from small community preservation to maintaining the integrity of the lands where we're both user and caretaker.

Escape Adventures is also a proud partner in the Leave No Trace (LNT) program. A national non-profit organization, The Leave No Trace Center for Outdoor Ethics promotes and inspires responsible outdoor recreation. Their outreach programs range from education to research, extending to key partnerships. On each of our trips, we share an LNT primer, or mission introduction with our guests. Folding their wisdom into our practice, these informal mini tutorials help us all see and feel the little things we do that have a big impact on the land we love.

What's truly Organic?

Organic agriculture practices cannot ensure that products are completely free of residues. Inasmuch, certain preferred methods are used to minimize pollution from air, soil and water. Organic food handlers, processors and retailers adhere to standards that maintain the integrity of organic agricultural products.

Our Trip Leaders

Enjoy the ultimate tour experience with the most friendly, knowledgeable, and responsible trip leaders in the industry. Escape Adventures' leaders are not only skilled gourmet chefs, trained mechanics, fun, friendly, educated, articulate, and dependable, they are also seasoned riders, climbers, hikers, and trained drivers.

But probably most importantly, while many outfitters only require tour guides to complete a 4-hour first aid and CPR course, we require all of our trip leaders to carry Wilderness First Responder (WFR) Certification. WFR Certification requires an intensive, 80-hour course held over 7-10 days. Trip Leaders learn how to treat a variety of medical, injury, and environmental emergencies in remote settings, as well as how to evacuate patients out of the backcountry. In addition to providing a solid understanding of treatment, WFR trains our leaders how to assess and lead in an emergency situation. You can rest assured that in the highly unlikely event that you should become ill or injured on tour, you are in excellent hands with our Trip Leaders.

Exceptional Service & Trip Leaders

Leading tours naturally followed from our passion of exploring our favorite places with our friends. As we've expanded our service throughout the years from daily biking tours to a vast selection of multi-day mountain biking, road biking, hiking, and multi-sport tours across the nation, our philosophy hasn't changed. For us it's all about enjoying and protecting the natural environment and sharing the places and activities we love.

Our support staff includes our reservation team who is there to answer your questions about the tours, our service team who prepares your bike and gear for the tour, and our trip leaders - the ones who take you into the great outdoors. The highest level of responsibility, good nature, integrity, and dedication are standard traits of all those who work at Escape Adventures. We are proud of it and we think you should know it.

You Might Find It Interesting...

For every 20 resumes we receive, only 1 Trip Leader is hired. We take pride in hiring only the best Trip Leaders who will exemplify our vision of providing the best service and maintaining our consistent commitment to quality.

But you don't have to take our word for it;

My boyfriend, his daughter and I did a 6 day mountain biking tour with Escape Adventures this spring and it was a fantastic trip! Merrick, Troy and Ike were our guides and the knowledge and expertise they all had made the trip wonderful. The guys were so careful to service and accommodate our individual skill levels and made sure the trip was fun and challenging for each of us. We laughed and laughed, we had deep conversations by the fire at night, those that chose to share our personal histories and yet I never felt that there was too much togetherness with them. They were respectful of our privacy and never intruded. Troy's cooking was over the top delicious and he was more than happy to share recipes. Merrick has got to be the coolest mountain biking guide in the western US and Ike was eager to give me asked for tips on meditation retreats and might have the best Spotify playlist out there. I would absolutely choose to have these three guide me on my next Moab trip. I miss them!

The Best Support Vehicles

Having custom-made vehicles allows us to take you to places few other outfitters can, or will go.

Every Escape Adventures tour is accompanied by at least one support vehicle, trailer, and in some cases a second and third transfer van. As you thumb through our catalog, you will also notice our vehicles are big, tough, and different. These are not stock vehicles. After purchase, we custom engineer our trucks, vans, and trailers by our on-staff mechanic to meet the unique needs of different tours. For example, certain trucks are specifically designed for The White Rim and The Maze, while others are designed for The Grand Tetons and Yellowstone. We also innovate and try new things with our fleet; Notably, in 2007, we converted many of our support vehicles to vegetable-oil burning engines. We were able to reduce our carbon footprint significantly for more than 5 years! Amazingly, we didn't sacrifice performance.

It doesn't just end with a great support vehicle, you need experienced and qualified drivers. Each of our trip leaders is required to be trained in safe vehicle operation, 4X4 driving, and basic maintenance. Our experienced trip leaders make it look easy, transporting our guests, along with their bikes, fresh food, camping gear and plenty of drinking water to a remote location.

The Best Food

Food represents a big part of the Escape Adventures experience. Our trip leaders prepare all of your meals on our camping trips. Conversely, on our inn tours most dinners and breakfasts unfold at local restaurants. Expect three delicious meals a day consisting entirely of freshly prepared foods. These include fresh organic fruits and vegetables, as well as meats. We also have energy snacks aboard our support vehicles. Don't be surprised if your guides purchase fresh fruits and healthy snacks throughout the day while you're enjoying a ride. They may just show up on the trail with a local treat!

On our Camping Tours, trip leaders prepare gourmet meals out in the open, grilling fajitas over an open fire and baking enchilada pie in an outdoor dutch oven. Some of our guests' favorite trip leader specialties include blueberry pancakes for breakfast, veggie-feta wraps and pasta for lunch, and bruschetta, stuffed mushrooms and deep-dish pizza for dinner. And we don't forget the dessert, either. From pineapple upside down cake to chocolate fondue, there's sure to be something to satisfy your sweet tooth.

Our food isn't just good, it's good for you.

An increasing number of our guests are vegans or vegetarians, whom we not only accommodate but also pleasantly surprise. Should you have special diet requirements and/or limitations, just let us know at sign-up. We'll work with you to meet those critical needs.

“We did the 5-day MTB excursion to Beatty, Death Valley and Red Rocks. Had a great time, and our guides Troy, Dylan and Will were outstanding. Chef Troy is a culinary magician - making 5-star meals out of the sag wagon in the middle of the desert. We looked forward to the food almost as much as the riding. Overall it was a great time, superbly organized by EA. I would ride with them again.”

-Lance F, Death Valley

“The food (breakfast, lunch, and dinner, plus snacks and appetizers) were all top notch and would put many restaurants to shame. The amount of time and effort our leaders gave us was amazing. This was a great trip.”

Casual Inns, Cool Hotels & Cozy Cabins

Because of the nature of our very remote trekking and traveling locales, we retire to only the best, handpicked hotels and available inns. Put another way, we take your decompression seriously. Our Casual Inn tours provide the best of both worlds: enjoy exciting outdoor adventures by day; then return to town each evening for a scrumptious meal. Followed by bedding down warm and ultra comfortably.

We choose inn accommodations that add another rather distinct dimension to your travel. From special amenities like hot tubs and fireplaces, to historic character and unique charm, our inns offer you something extra. While the inns featured on our tours vary from rustic cabins to luxurious spa retreats, we always seek out lodging to enhance and complement the unique flavor of each destination. After all, your evenings shouldn't be a break from an outstanding trip, but rather a flawless extension of it.

Escape Adventures has developed a special program to seek out and support only high quality, if not most environmentally conscious suppliers. This operating mindset ensures that those who furnish accommodations on our trips share our passion for protecting our environment. So not only do all of our inns offer outstanding service and reliable, inviting accommodations, many also share concern for our communities. And the only planet we have.

The Best and Most Unique Accommodations

We know that a good night's sleep is central to a great day of outdoors adventure. With Escape Adventures, you're able to experience unique style wedded to local hospitality by retiring to the best inns and campsites available.

Luxury Inns and Restaurants

When we refer to the term Luxury, we refer to, "the very best". Our founder, Jared Fisher, not only claims a professional education in Hotel and Restaurant Management, he's also a student of the culinary arts. His working knowledge and familiarity with elite hospitality carried over to the selection of our lodging. Each Luxury Inn was handpicked in advance: the criteria being 4-5-star service, room quality, and cultural themes. Our restaurants are chosen in a similar fashion: emphasizing experience and culture, but with particular attention paid to best local ingredients. Look for the Luxury Inns and Restaurants on select tours.

First Class Camping

There is nothing better than rolling into camp to fresh made chips and salsa, homemade guacamole, and Dutch oven enchiladas. Then making your way to a sweet and inviting campfire, sharing your favorite anecdote or image from the day's activities while marshmallows roast. Enjoy a small-batch, local beer before retiring to your tent. Inside: a sturdy raised cot, fluffy sleeping bag, and a plush full size pillow. Wow. You earned this. Sweet dreams.

We choose well-maintained public campgrounds with scenic vistas and comfortable arrangements. You'll move seamlessly from one day of your trip to the next, camping outdoors and enjoying wildly healthy, delicious homemade meals.

The food tastes better,
the sky is certainly bigger,
and your mind is clearer.

Mom and Dad: you deserve a vacation. Let us do the work!

Parents, how often do you get the chance to take your family on vacation without the worry about where to stay, what to eat, and how to keep everyone entertained? Our trip leaders see to all the details. Now imagine a trip that affords a vacation from the “call of duty”, lending itself to unlimited family fun. Those families with older children can join any regularly scheduled tour appropriate to their skill level. If you have younger children—up to age 15—consider one of our special Family Getaway departures. Our Introductory Tours offer a terrific option for families with less athletically inclined children. Lastly, we provide a special pricing tier for families. These rates can be found in the back of the catalog on page 98.

The only thing we cherish
more than seeing families hanging out together....
Seeing families hanging outside together.

Fabulous Family Getaways and Adventures

"As a family, we have traveled together on many great trips to destinations around the world and we all agree that the Escape Adventures Tour qualifies as one of our best ever. Five stars all the way...thanks to the Escape Adventures team and especially to Dan and Troy!"

-Frances and Mark

"Nikki and Erik really went above and beyond in my opinion because of the way they treated my kids. Kids sometimes need a little extra care and attention. Nikki and Erik gave my kids confidence, support and attention when they needed it."

-Brad P

The Most Traveling Options

Year after year our guests return with their family and friends. Why? Because we shape each trip to your needs; moreover, we strive to work within your financial parameters. Our Guaranteed Trip Departure, 100% Satisfaction Guarantee, Price Match Guarantee, and NEXT Adventure Club (Loyal Guest Program) are a few reasons nearly all of our guests return year after year. (Please see page 96 for more information on these programs and policies).

The Classic Escape Adventures Trip

An Escape Adventures trip represents a superb way to enjoy the company of other active travelers, the camaraderie of shared interests. Travel solo or with a friend... or two. One of the defining characteristics of our trips is their small group composition. For over 25-years, Escape Adventures has been taking outdoor enthusiasts beyond the "average" vacation, into the exciting world of small-group adventure travel. Our trip leader to guest ratio is the best in the industry, averaging 1 trip leader for every 5 guests. Our smaller groups, ranging from 6 to 13 guests, allow for flexible schedules, individualized service, comfort, if not a deeper, more expansive backcountry adventure. Don't be surprised if you come away from your tour with a whole group of new and awesome friends!

Many of our tours include guests traveling on their own. Our structured tours and small groups are ideal for solo travelers. On Inn Tours, we offer a single-supplement to guarantee that you have your own room. We can also pair you up with another traveler, sharing a room with two queen beds. Though if we're unable to make a comfortable or suitable match, you still get your own room at no additional cost.

Custom & Private Trips

To shape a Custom or Private Trip, we begin a dialogue: first, to develop a group specific itinerary, tailored to respective abilities and preferred tempo. Next we schedule, bookmarking and working in your optimum or ideal getaway dates. Size-wise, we can build a multi-day trip for as few as two people, scaled up to as many as 30 plus. Contact us today to start the custom trip building process.

Large Corporate Groups:

We have been expertly crafting large, custom groups since the early 90s. Our know-how and supportive capacity can facilitate groups of up to 100 cyclists and hikers at a time. We're here to work with your organization, local union, IT team or sales group to plan the best possible shared event. Maximize your collaborative professional potential with our pre-meeting breakfast rides, corporate challenges, and outdoor motivational tours. Offering a superb way to transition seamlessly from the business world to the backcountry, our Multi-day tours lend a new if wonderfully expansive playing field for team building, or incentive travel. Those key qualities, coupled with our unmatched tour elements proved essential to the broad and varied companies we've teamed up with over the years.

They include, but are not limited to:

Sun Micro-Systems, Microsoft Works, Dewalt Tools, KFC, McDonalds Corporation, Ralston Purina Company, General Motors Finance, Amway Achievers, Family PC Magazine, Principal Financial, Ford Motor Company, John Hancock, Nextel, Chili's Restaurants, BMW, IMG, Baker Concrete, Coca-Cola, Boston Ski and Sports Club, in addition to many more.

The idea of taking your friends or family somewhere cool and amazing is actually pretty easy. Tell us what you're thinking. We'll make it happen.

Any trip in this catalog, any specific timeframe, any group size, we can custom-fit if not comfortably accommodate. A Custom and Private Escape Adventures trip affords the ultimate bonding, or teambuilding experience for: Clubs and co-workers - Family reunions - Corporate retreats - Friends.

"Escape Adventures put together a four day guided mountain bike trip for my two brothers and I, that was extremely well-executed and went wonderfully. Will and Ike, the guides, put together an itinerary that had a great variety of rides all within our skill level, that included the Virgin River Ridge, Thunder Mountain, and other trails. We stayed nightly at Cedar Breaks in Brian Head, heading out after breakfast each morning. Not only were Will and Ike very positive and engaging they're great trail cooks! This was a one-off trip and I complement EA for working to create a trip that met our calendar, the biking we wanted to accomplish, and took care of everything bikes, meals, lodging. Guides even took us over to Bryce Canyon after we finished a ride nearby one evening. We definitely will book something with EA again, and highly recommend them and the two guides we had."

That kind of decades long liaising, plus our exemplary environmental stewardship allows our access to some of North America's best preserves and most profound wilds.

Tucson, the Sonoran Desert

Enjoy a wintertime retreat to America's Southwestern prize – Tucson. Tucson is rated as America's second-best bike-friendly city. As one travel journalist put it, "Tucson is a dream landscape for a cyclist worth his or her electrolytes."

Our tour de Tucson builds out with stages in Saguaro National Park, on gorgeous loops through the 95,000-acre wilderness. At the Tumacacori National Historic site, we glide into the Long Ago: a beautifully preserved 17th-century adobe mission. Broad in the shoulders, for enhanced safety-passing, Mount Lemmon's 7000-ft of elevation gain is made all the more dramatic for the otherworldly rock formations coupled to breathtaking views. Another stage takes us through glorious tallgrass prairie and sensuously rolling hills in and around Sonoita.

By virtue of Tucson's progressive light pollution codes, fantastic stargazing lights up our evenings and each meal here gets across the board five stars.

Grand Canyon, Bryce & Zion National Parks

Bryce Canyon, Zion National Park, and the Grand Canyon are a trio of nature's finest. From southern Utah's Brian Head Peak, descend off the mountain through a blur of aspen and pine to Red Canyon in the Dixie National Forest. Here, ride a newly created bicycle path lined with oversized sandstone figures.

At Bryce Canyon National Park, our road through the forest opens abruptly to the brim of a giant basin filled to capacity with stone-silent hoodoos. En route to the Grand Canyon, ride through ponderosa forests and deer meadows to the North Rim, where anticipation meets its match at the highest edge of the greatest gorge in the world.

Cycling back over the Kaibab Plateau, descend more than 5,000 feet into Zion National Park, for a grand finale ride into the stunning sanctuary of the Three Patriarchs, Angel's Landing, and the Great White Throne.

Bryce & Zion National Parks

Soaring red stone spires and ancient citadels of rich Navajo sandstone give way to haunting hoodoos and curving arches of rock on our Bryce and Zion Road Bike Tour. Owing to the largest concentration of parklands in North America, plus vast open views, this is no less than a cyclist's paradise.

At Bryce Canyon, most days afford no less than a 90-mile view to Navajo Mountain and the Kaibab Plateau. Stargazers will enjoy a 7.3-magnitude night sky; this means you'll be able to see upwards of 7500 stars without a telescope! Compare that to the big city norm of maybe a few dozen.

At the historically remote Zion National Park, we marvel at huge sandstone monoliths that lord over 2,000-ft. deep canyons. Enjoy a ride up the quiet Zion Canyon Drive – a road open only to bicycles and shuttles buses.

Bryce & Zion National Parks

As a pioneering outfitter in Bryce and Zion, we’ve developed a wealth of extraordinarily rich adventure here. Not only is the road biking phenomenal and diverse, so is the terrain. The landforms here lend themselves to a multitude of adventure, if not inspiring place-names: from The Court of The Patriarchs, The Beehives, Mountain of the Sun to The Great White Throne.

In addition to our favorite road bike rides, on this trip, we range further into southern Utah’s brilliant colors and shapes: hiking, climbing, and canyoneering among the region’s prevalent cliffs, crags, and plateaus. From cycling the separated bike paths of Red Canyon and Bryce Canyon, we take hiking shoes to more remote draws: Sunset Point, Brian Head’s Cascade Falls, and Zion’s Narrows. Our canyoneering day takes us rappelling deep canyons and chutes. Our final activity transits to the Red Cliffs of St. George, where we chalk up a thrilling day of rock climbing.

Grand Staircase, Escalante & Capitol Reef

Central Utah has one of the largest stretches of true backcountry left in the nation. This area remained uncharted until the mid-1800s and still harbors many natural treasures yet to be discovered. From the alpine heights of Dixie National Forest to the Slickrock canyons of Escalante National Monument, central Utah is a quiet paradise reserved for the few willing to venture this far.

Our cycling tour goes eastward through contrasting desert scenery and high alpine forests along Utah Highway 12, among America's most scenic highways, to Capitol Reef National Park. Long winding roads cut through a maze of canyons and an assembly of arches and monoliths make it seem as if this natural uplift was custom-made just for cyclists!

Between rides, we relax in the quaint hamlets of Boulder and Escalante. Remote and sparsely populated, this trip is for anyone looking for un-crowded roads and backcountry experience.

Best of Moab

Even if you've never visited Moab (pop. 5000) before, you've very likely seen it. Moab and its dramatic surroundings served as the backdrop for countless movies as well as inspired the Radiator Springs/Route 66 ghost town depicted in the Cars Disney films.

Moab's history is by turns rich as varied: From a Mormon outpost on the Spanish Trail, to Wild-West era outlaw haunt or lair, to base for hard-rock miners and rare mineral prospectors. The beauty of Arches and Canyonlands National Parks have drawn nature-lovers for generations.

Our combo tours are like a Moab's Best Of/Greatest Hits Album. Signature road rides offer challenging and fun routes for all levels of riders, marked by seemingly endless views that shade each day. Off the bike, our tours have built-in side hikes, which provide views of the area's most astonishing natural features, as we view-find from characteristic natural arches to age-old petroglyphs.

Picture vibrant sandstone walls chiseled by the mighty Colorado River, lit by the evening glow of a desert sunset, and backed by a magnificent range of snow-capped mountains. In the midst of Utah's Canyon Country, Moab's backcountry provides the perfect setting for your multi-sport adventure.

At Arches, we'll hike through a geological wonderland, where natural exhibits of pinnacles, arches, and pedestals seem to defy the laws of physics. Dead Horse Point and Island In The Sky bring us expansive views of maze-like chasms on our road biking experience along the acclaimed mesa. Moab's vertical landscape challenges us with fantastic introductory rock climbing. And, while the Colorado River's power is present everywhere throughout our adventure, nowhere is it better realized than on our exciting day of river rafting.

Adventure seekers lacking outdoors experience, or family groups will find this tour a perfect match of package options and tempo.

The New Mexico area represents a distinct overlay or confluence of ecological zones: the Great Plains in the East, the Chihuahuan Desert and the Sierra Madre to the South, and the Sonoran Desert and Colorado Plateau to the West. Given those varied attributes, the land naturally lends itself to multi-sport touring: outstanding road cycling and hiking options beckon at each compass point. While the nearby Rio Grande offers excellent whitewater rafting.

In addition to exploring ancient adobe and cliff-dwelling settlements, we drop into Old Spanish colonies, more modern art colonies, and smart mountain resorts.

Along the way, we savor a diverse tapestry of culture, architecture, not to mention art, reflective of the state's three distinct traditions: Indian, Spanish and Anglo. Hot Springs National Parks & Lakes

Wonderful distilling of rich Americana and dazzling Southeast backcountry, our Hot Springs/Four Lakes Road Bike tour represents a superb fit for the cyclist keen for miles, matched by equally big slices of down-home flavor, color, and history.

Canvassing no less than four superb Arkansas State Parks, our five-day stage shades more than 200-miles, predominantly on scenic roads; sweeping through Lake Ouachita, Lake Greeson, DeGray Lake and Lake Hamilton, as well as the Little Missouri wild and scenic river. At Hot Springs National Park, we interpret and soak up our nation's first federal preserve: established by president Andrew Jackson a full 40-years before Yellowstone became our first national park.

Though the draw has always been the healing, rejuvenating waters, Memphis has nothing on Hot Springs. From Stubby's to the iconic McClard's, we come away with a great regional taste served up graciously by the area's famous pitmasters.

Death Valley & Red Rock

While many areas of North America deal with snow and icy roads, we consider our great fortune: to enjoy exemplary outdoor wintertime adventure in the heart of the Mojave Desert, from Death Valley National Park to Red Rock Canyon.

Roam America's largest national park outside Alaska. We cycle across the big valley floor, stopping to visit historic sites. From slick Kevlar tires to thick Vibram soles, we navigate around sunbaked foothills, knolls, and stacks of boulders etched in yellow clay, rose and tan. These fantastic landscape features would serve as the backdrop for the first Star Wars film, Death Valley standing in for the planet Tatooine.

When you experience these lands by bicycle, led by people who have a deep connection to Red Rock and Death Valley, you'll quickly learn this is not a place to be endured, but rather a world-class outdoor recreation destination.

High Sierras & Sequoias

Spanning 400 miles, California's High Sierra is a powerhouse of a mountain range: not only is it the longest in the lower 48, it is also home to the highest number of peaks. But this broad sweep, that cleaves nearly the entirety of the Golden State, is more than just a mammoth geological structure; it is an iconic presence.

Inhaling endless high country horizon from a fast and nimble road bike or one of our eBikes, we steadily climb some of the loftiest passes in the Sierra Nevada. From an immersion in the rich Western lore of California's gold country, we literally hug some of the oldest and grandest trees on Earth, the giant Sequoia: the biggest and best of the last.

Filling lungs all the while pushing legs, we lose and find ourselves simultaneously. Feeling the sustained grandeur, the delicately harmonized magnitude in "those measureless mountain days" Muir reveled in.

"The mighty Sierra, miles in height and so gloriously colored, so radiant, it seemed not clothed with light but wholly composed of it, like the wall of some celestial city."

Big Sur

A highly influential, early 20th century watercolorist and muralist, Francis McComas defined California's Central Coast as "the greatest meeting of land sea."

With that visionary exactness as our guide, we shaped a virtuoso velo interpretation of the Golden State's Central Coast: animated as much by sea cliffs and rolling wine country, iconic Highway One to Redwoods, breaching gray whales to far more furtive sea otters.

From the burly rawness of Big Sur to the Mediterranean-like aesthetic seen in Santa Barbara's coastline, our big brushstrokes in the saddle sweep past ranch farmland and great spans of ocean. Each day's epic resolves into equally sublime soft-notes and local regional qualities. From clam chowder in Pismo Beach to Pinot Noir in Monterey, historic lighthouses to the Heart Castle. Our closing stage journeys the world-famous 17-Mile Drive, sweeping through a wind sculpted grove of Cypress trees.

Put another way: You might have a cozy two-seater with a sandy bottom all to yourself; or we'll share warm, connected earthen pools fed by multiple waterfalls. Besides the stopovers at the natural hot springs, our routes take in a triad of colorful mining towns: Atlanta, Lowman, and Pine.

Crater Lake & Bend

From the base of Mount Bachelor, we behold a bold, rakish persona. Beyond Bachelor, “the little volcano with a big view”, we sweep past snow-fed lakes on a circuit of roads where astronauts trained a generation ago, preparing for Apollo missions.

In the cool high country air, an outdoors person can't help but find all manner of major contentment. From the churning edge of the Deschutes River, our narrative unfolds in multiple chapters: from cycling to rafting the rapids to rock climbing.

At Smith Rock, one of Oregon's Seven Wonders, we experience a rock-climbing mecca nonpareil: a mix and match of soaring spires and sheer tufts of basalt. As we collectively inhale this landscape, Smith Rock ultimately takes our breath away; projecting lengthy silhouettes, from its cathedral like spikes and pinnacles onto an already staggering sunset. Bravo, Oregon.

An incredibly diverse succession of terrain, from glacial plains to volcanic blast zones; exalted mountain ridges, rainforests, woodlands to lava flows frozen in time, all come to define this Northwest road cycling epic. And keep your eye out for emus.

Sweeping into Mount Rainier National Park, we behold the highest peak in the Cascades, 14,114-ft. Rainier, both a Washington State icon if not a sacred place, is the embodiment of the goddess Tahoma to the Coast Salish people. From the site of America's single most amazing eruption, Mount St. Helens, we ride further into the Cascade Range, into the heart of the Pacific Northwest's ring of fire.

"They (trip leaders) worked very hard every day and made sure that all guests needs were met and were very good at adapting when needed. It is obvious that they love to ride just as much as I do which to me makes the trip so much better. They are the kind of people that you would want to hang out and ride on a regular basis."

Oregon Coast

Rolling down National Scenic Highway 101 along the foothills and beaches of the Pacific Northwest, our Oregon Road Bike tour pulls out all the stops to truly showcase and fully savor the beautifully diverse Oregonian coastline, one of the state's Seven Wonders.

Starting from the Columbia River at the state's northwest edge, we wind our way along what locals call the People's Coast, Oregon's entirely public owned coastline, enjoying forested sea stacks, sandstone cliffs, vibrant inlets, not to mention oxygen rich ocean breezes. Our cycling tour is further distinguished by a layover day. This break from the saddle allows the opportunity to explore and enjoy the rugged coast at your leisure. We then head to Reedsport, where lush forest gives way to thousands of acres of cream-colored sand dunes in the Oregon Dunes National Recreation Area.

This cycling trip rewards with no less than a lifetime of memories shaped by a weeklong experience that interprets the very best of coastal Oregon!

San Juan Islands

From quiet pebble beaches to blossoming meadows, San Juan Islands cycling is a peaceful retreat from busy everyday life.

A scenic ferry ride from Washington's Fidalgo Island brings us to the maritime world of the San Juan's. Here we cycle on serene island roads, navigating around harbors, inlets, bays and rolling green hills. Riding to the top of Mt. Constitution, we climb up an old stone fort's princess tower for a bird's-eye view of the entire San Juan Island chain, the Pacific Ocean, Puget Sound, Olympic National Park, and Cascade mountain range.

The San Juans are also a natural haven for wildlife. Great blue herons, black-tailed deer, cormorants, seals, sea otters, and king fishers make their homes here. We watch for dolphins and orca whales as we ferry through the island channels, where whale sightings occur regularly in season. When you think of the Northwest, you are thinking of the San Juans!

San Juan Islands

As a foodie views a five-course meal, we experience and interpret Washington's San Juan Islands: from exquisite setting to irresistible composition to presentation with a flourish.

Counting 172 named or recognized islands and reefs between Vancouver, British Columbia and Seattle, Washington, the San Juan Islands present a gorgeous fusion of tall, dense forest and cobalt-colored sea. Taking after Norway's fjords, the San Juans, owing to isolation and ferry only access, have collectively held onto their rural Pacific Northwest lifestyle, which includes a deep connection to wildlife.

From Orcas, called "the Emerald Isle" by locals, to the alpaca ranches on farm rooted Lopez, to lavender farms and wineries of San Juan, we immerse in view-finding of old growth Cedar and majestic Douglas-fir, freshwater lakes, orcas and big wave watching. We also find ourselves savoring the farm-to-table island grown cuisine that spans organic wines, craft ciders, gin and ales.

The Tetons are not merely rocks; they are a fountain of energy.

Grand Teton & Yellowstone

It is the striking appearance of the Grand Tetons that sets it apart from the rest of the Rocky Mountains. First, in the highest, sky-scraping thrust, an abrupt 7000-ft jut above Jackson Hole, that peers over a no less impressive supporting cast. So sharply serrated, the sub-peaks evoke a Great White shark's lower jaw stretched atop a high plateau.

Only 40-miles long by ten-miles wide, this relatively small segment of the Rockies is also the youngest. The Grand Teton National Park and adjoining National Forest protect this unique geographical feature, which peaks out at 13,770-ft.

Each glorious morning, set against the dramatic Tetons, we stage an Upper Rockies tour: spanning three states, inhaling peaks and surging past valleys. Through an 18-million acre big mountain ecosystem, rich in bear, moose, wolf and elk, we'll sweep across Yellowstone into The Bridger-Teton National Forest: crossing the Snake River and reveling in such American West icons as Old Faithful.

Grand Teton & Yellowstone Multi-Sport

From an internationally acclaimed climbing destination, to an active geologic laboratory sitting atop enough magma to fill the Grand Canyon seven times over, we get swept up in the Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem.

Along the valley floor, our tour unfolds on bikes; riding through the Bridger-Teton National Forest, across open bull moose and bison range. With no foothills, the Grand Tetons rise super-abruptly from the valley floor. Along our journey, we encounter the area's world-famous natural attractions, including Old Faithful and Yellowstone Lake. At the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone we immerse all our senses in a magnificent waterfall. Taking up a frothy challenge, we raft the rapids: experiencing this Big Western wilderness from a wholly different perspective. In the heart of the Tetons, we test out our skills with a beginner rock climbing adventure.

From subterranean pressure cooker to the vast aboveground paradise, this unmatched, multi-sport adventure focuses on the very best outdoor adventures the Tetons offer.

Glacier National Park, Going To The Sun

It's Big Sky meets six days of big smiles on our epic Glacier National Park/Going to the Sun Road Bike tour.

Basing from Montana's Glacier National Park, we cycle into some of North America's most breathtaking landscapes. Nearly all of the plants and animals that existed during the era of European exploration are still present, largely preserved in the park, adjoining wilderness and tribal homelands. From background to foreground, we ride incredibly picturesque cycling routes: from the shoreline of lakes shaped and fed by 10,000-year old retreating glaciers.

Once off the bike, take an invigorating dip in high-alpine lake waters. Or immerse your inner geologist in the park's 1.4 billion-year old stromatolite rocks. At the same time, we're mindful of time sensitivity to this big country. Of the park's 150 glaciers, photographed and studied at midcentury, only 25 remain dynamic. Park Service divulges that by 2030,

Coast to Coast

There is surely gold to be found in the intertidal zones off Florida's Treasure Coast. Peruvian gold and Mexican silver, in fact, given up by any of the 11 Spanish treasure ships that went to the bottom more than three centuries ago.

But the real bounty of the Sunshine State's central-east begins with water: from ocean to rivers, inlets and lakes to wetlands. To a region known for barrier islands, aromatic citrus groves, boating and sport-fishing, we've found an uncharted and original cycling destination. Florida offers nothing but three season comfort. Fall and Winter days are consistently sunny and for a glorious week you can forget the coat and boots.

On routes that key on quiet, quartz sand beaches and mesmerizingly blue-green lagoons, we dismount to glimpse a sea turtle or manatees. This trip showcases the big Cypress that define interior Florida's wildly lively watersheds, as well as the stately century-old Oaks fringed with Spanish moss, synonymous to the region's Southern heritage.

Trip Preparation

Passports

A valid passport is required for all international trips. If you are coming to the United States, you will need a passport. Be sure to check the expiration date and physical condition of your passport and verify the travel document requirements with the consulates of the countries you are planning to visit during your trip. Passports issued to minors under the age of 16 expire every 5 years. You may also find helpful information on the US State Department's website: travel.state.gov. To be additionally safe, and in case of losing your travel documents, make photocopies of your airline ticket confirmation and your passport. Being prepared will avoid much stress and frustration. We suggest you leave one set of copies at home with someone you trust and is available at any hour, and bring one set with you, keeping it separate from the original documents. If your arrival and departure hotel is willing to store them in a safe deposit box that is a good idea to do so.

Clothing and Equipment

After we receive your deposit, you will be e-mailed a complete list of clothing and gear that you will need for your Escape Adventure. It has listed items that we feel are necessary for a comfortable and safe adventure. This includes casual and comfortable layers before and after daily activities, waterproof and multiple layered -technical cycling clothing for your daily activities, and other essential items needed to make your trip unforgettable and enjoyable.

There are some restrictions to size of bags and luggage due to the nature and location of each trip. Please note that on some of our remote backcountry mountain bike tours in Canyonlands, luggage is limited to one small soft-shell suitcase or a medium/large sized duffel bag (no heavier than 40 pounds). We also suggest bringing one daypack or small backpack for valuables. Please ensure your luggage container is water repellant for these trips.

A word about summer/high elevation trips: We often wish we could control the weather, but unfortunately, it's not up to us. Please consider the elevation of your tour when packing. Regardless of the time of year, days and nights at elevation can be cold. It is best to be prepared for everything. Often weather predictions are unreliable, and we recommend bringing gear for wet and cold weather under all circumstances. We have experienced freezing temperatures in both July and October. Layering works well, and a warm beanie cap is important year round.

A word about spring and fall desert/lower elevation tours: Not many people think of "rain" and the desert together. We're here to tell you that it can rain in the desert, and be very windy and often cool at night. Keep in mind that you will be having more fun if the weather's not making you miserable.

Fitness Ratings

Every Escape Adventure trip is designed to appeal to active adventure seekers. In many cases, a baseline relative to individual skill, or fitness level influences how that trip is paced and composed. Clearly though, this can be subjective territory, open to one's interpretation, or variables. To fine tune your decision-making, and facilitate joining the most appropriate tour we've constructed the chart below; it speaks to those very necessary considerations. We're aware your pace may vary from one day to the next. By extension, your traveling companions' may differ, as well. In addition to the aforedescribed chart, on each tour we go to great lengths to present a broad range of mileage options. At the same time, support vehicles are provided as much as possible. In other words, your leisure is our pleasure. Take a well-deserved break. Or go as hard or as far as you comfortable each day.

Training for Your Tour

Guests often ask: how should they train for a tour? Straightaway we advise exercising regularly prior to any trip: this prepares your muscles and cardio-vascular system for the daily workout that comes with adventure touring territory. Conversely, we don't expect you to practice whitewater rafting, or rock climbing on your own. All instruction for any multi-sport activity is provided on the tour. Thus there is no need for prior experience. If you are looking for a more relaxed workout, or level of exertion, each tour has easy, moderate, and seasoned options. The following represent a few important primers, respective of each type of tour.

Preparing for your Road Bike Tour

For optimal physical preparation, we recommend that you ride at least several hours per week in the months preceding your tour. During the tour you will be on your bike every day; we can assure you that an unprepared bottom ultimately resolves into a sore one. Though, if you're unable to ride your bike, or don't own one commit to a spin class at a gym nearby; try to attend at least two or classes each week. Your level of fitness goes a long way toward your tour enjoyment. Check your specific itinerary to gain an idea of the anticipated daily mileage and level of strenuousness—then train appropriately.

Preparing for your Multi-Sport Adventure

As an adventurous person, feel free to do whatever you can before the trip. We especially recommend focusing on your bike and walking, as many of the other activities aren't normally available for practice. Rest assured, you're in capable hands, leaving these specialty sports up to us. Except for biking and hiking, no experience is necessary. Just enthusiasm. Plus an open mind geared up to try some new adventures. Your level of fitness also affects how much you enjoy your tour. Again, check your specific itinerary to gain an idea of your average daily mileage, plus the expressed level of strenuousness. Then train appropriately.

Preparing for a Tour at High Elevations

Many of our summer adventures are set in high elevations. Most people acclimate easily, without incident; however preparation is key, as is the ability to recognize symptoms if they occur. Being well hydrated prior to touring, plus having a solid or suitable fitness base will unquestionably help. Many of our high elevation tours offer an easygoing first day to better acclimate. Ibuprofen and other OTC pain relievers usually relieve high altitude headaches. Besides headache, loss of appetite and sleeplessness are the most common side effects of traveling at altitude. Our Trip Leaders are well trained to recognize any altitude symptoms; their preparation and experience translate into proactive measures and effectual oversight.
